

Frequently Asked Questions

- 1. Do seminar speakers/topics need to be approved by CURE in advance?
Yes, while the seminar host is free to select the speaker, final sign-off from CURE is required. Once a potential speaker is identified, please send details to CURE at Research@CUREepilepsy.org for approval.
- 2. What if I am unable to promote CURE at the seminar due to institutional policies? Along with exposing young researchers and clinicians to exciting epilepsy research, a goal of the Frontiers in Research Seminar Series program is to spread the word about funding opportunities with CURE. That being said, we are unable to accept applications from institutions that cannot meet the basic promotional requirements outlined below:
 - Distribute a seminar flyer on/around campus and provide CURE a copy at least two weeks prior to the seminar. Flyer must contain CURE logo and key seminar information (refer to Host Guidelines for example).
 - Before talk begins, display a title slide featuring CURE's logo (refer to Host Guidelines for example).
 - Provide a 1-2-minute introduction about CURE research funding at the beginning of the talk (refer to Host Guidelines for talking points).
- 3. When are applications accepted for the Frontiers in Research Seminar Series program? Requests for applications are issued in the spring. If you would like to ensure that you are among the first to know when applications are being accepted, please ask us to add you to our Research eBlast list.
- 4. I recently applied for seminar funding through CURE's Frontiers in Research Seminar Series program. When should I expect to receive word as to whether or not I have been selected? We aim to have decisions finalized within 4-6 weeks of the application deadline.
- 5. If I am currently being funded by CURE, can I apply to participate in the Frontiers in Research Seminar Series program? Yes, CURE grantees (past and present) are welcome to participate in our Frontiers in Research Seminar Series program.
- 6. Can I apply if a CURE seminar has been hosted at my institution in the past? Since our goal is to team up with as many programs as possible, the only requirement is that each institution wait 1 full calendar year before applying for additional seminar funding. Please refer to CURE's website for a complete listing of all seminars to date (http:// www.cureepilepsy.org/seminarseries7).
