Addendum

Standard language to describe CURE Epilepsy

CURE Epilepsy is a parent-founded, research-focused nonprofit committed to finding a cure for epilepsy. Since 1998, it has invested in cutting-edge research and filled critical funding gaps in foundational science to expand understanding of the underlying mechanisms of epilepsy and help discover a cure. CURE Epilepsy has raised more than $100 million and funded over 300 epilepsy research projects — more than any other non-governmental organization in the United States. Working alongside their community of researchers and clinicians, they've invested in initiatives which have led to breakthroughs in the genetic diagnosis of epilepsy, potential treatments for infantile spasms, and a greater understanding of how to prevent sudden death in epilepsy, among other advances.
